Course Description: This language arts class is designed to increase communication skills through writing, speaking and listening, and the study of the English language. Writing styles include narrative, expository (informational), persuasive (argumentative), speech, and poetry. Writing topics will be linked to content in other courses and will be researched through both print and internet resources. We will utilize the writing process to develop, revise, evaluate, and improve written pieces. Classwork will focus on mastering the rules of grammar and the ability to express oneself orally.

Content

- Good writers use CONVENTIONS: grammar, mechanics, spelling, usage, and sentence formation.
- A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought, starts with a capital letter, and ends with appropriate punctuation.
- Four types of sentences are: declarative, interrogative, imperative, and exclamatory.
- Every sentence has a subject and a predicate.
- A subject tells whom or what a sentence is about.
- A predicate tells what the subject does, is, has, or feels and contains at least one verb.
- A compound sentence is made of two simple sentences joined by a comma and a connecting word.
- The words and, or, but are coordinating conjunctions which join sentence parts of equal importance.
- A complex sentence is made up of two simple sentences joined by a subordinating conjunction.
- Subordinating conjunctions make one part of the sentence less important than the other.
- A sentence fragment is a group of words without a subject or a predicate or both.
- A run-on sentence is two or more sentences that are joined together without proper punctuation.

Skills

- Identify subject and predicate.
- Identify independent and dependent clauses.
- Correct fragments and run-ons.
- Identify different sentence types: declarative, interrogative, imperative, and exclamatory.
- Write for variety by using simple sentences, compound sentences, complex sentences and compound-complex sentences.
- Use a semicolon or comma with and, but, or or to separate the sentences that form a compound sentence.
- Complex sentences require commas only if the subordinating conjunction begins the sentence.
- Write using complete sentences without fragments and run-on sentences.
- Writing using correct punctuation and capitalization.
